September 8 to 18, 2007

key word search: WDGP

This is a photo of Ndeze being fed by one of the rangers. She was found being cared for by her brother after her mother, Safari, was murdered. With our art we hope to help those who protect and care for the less than 700 mountain gorillas left in the world. Please join us by spreading the word or donating to Wildlife Direct or by bidding on our art.

Critically endangered, the world population of Mountain Gorillas stands at just around 700, with half these individuals living in DR Congo. In just seven months, the systematic killings in Congo have wiped out a significant proportion of this global population. If we do not stop this massacre, these magnificent creatures will become yet another species lost.

How You Can Help

Artists - Please join our ebay group "Art Helping Mountain Gorillas (WDGP)" to find out more about listing your art work as part of our auction.

Art Buyers - Login to ebay between September 8th - 18th. Enter search word "WDGP" to view the items up for auction and bid on your favorites.

Everyone - Please spread the word. This flyer may be reprinted and distributed without prior consent. If you are unable to participate in the auction, donations may be made to WDGP directly at www.wildlifedirect.org/blogAdmin/gorilla
